Diseases.	Remained.	Admitted.	Discharged.	Died.	Remaining.	Remarks.
Debility	3	...	...	...	3	The prisoners who lately arrived having brought the itch on board, they are kept apart from the rest, and properly treated. No cases of importance came under observation during the past week, and all the sick in hospital appear to have got on admirably. The invalids on the North Shore have also done well. Big Joe's leg fast recovering. Provisions and water good, and regularly supplied. Decks clean, and daily sprinkled with chloride of lime. Ventilation strictly enforced. Prisoners comfortable.

Debility	3	2	2	...	3	All the cases of itch have been discharged cured, and the majority of the sick have improved during the week. Tipene and Horiata appear to remain low; the former also suffers from spitting of blood. The house on the North Shore is being made very comfortable. The decks are kept very clean, and daily sprinkled with chloride of lime. Provisions and water good, and regularly brought on board. The prisoners well behaved and comfortable. Ventilation strictly enforced.

Debility	3	...	...	...	3	I have admitted the phthisical patients into hospital, and treating them with cod-liver oil and good diet. They look somewhat haggard and anxious. The sick during the week have improved, and several of them are convalescent. The house on the North Shore is kept in perfect order. The decks of the hulk are clean, and daily sprinkled with chloride of lime. The provisions and water regularly supplied, and of good quality. The prisoners well behaved and satisfied.

Debility	3	1	1	...	3	The consumptive patients have not shown any marked signs of improvement, though they look livelier and enjoy their meals. The remaining sick have favourably progressed, especially those on the North Shore. Old Peter, a cripple from chronic rheumatism, and who is on the sick list with debility, is being allowed liberal quantities of wine, &c. The decks clean, and daily sprinkled with chloride of lime. Provisions and water good, and regularly supplied. Prisoners well-behaved and cheerful.
