* The Turnkey coming on duty at 8 a.m. sleeps in the Gaol that night, and is called by the night-watch if anything unusual occurs; he also gets up occasionally to see that the officer on night duty is on the alert. These Turnkeys are off duty every alternate Saturday at noon and every alternate Sunday from 8 a.m. They are also allowed to divide Christmas Day, Good Friday, Queen's Birthday, and all other general holidays between them.

† These men sleep in the Gaol every alternate night, but they are never called upon to perform any duty after 8 p.m. except in cases of very great emergency, which rarely ever happens. They are off duty one Saturday at noon and one entire Sunday every four weeks. They also divide Christmas Day and all other general holidays in a similar manner to the Turnkeys.
