ACKNOWLEDGMENTS TO MEMBERS OF COMMITTEES AND ORGANIZATIONS

In concluding this report it is fitting that there should be placed on record an acknowledgment and appreciation of the valuable services gratuitously rendered by members of committees during the year under review. The generous manner in which their time and knowledge are given to advancing the important work of standardization and simplification is worthy of the highest commendation. It is desired also to acknowledge the co-operation and assistance which has been freely given by other Government Departments, local authorities, professional, manufacturing, trading, and industrial organizations, and their executives.

A. R. GALBRAITH, M.Inst.C.E., F.R.S.E.,
