

Interloan.—The number of books lent by the General Assembly Library in response to requests from other libraries was 618 (compared with 499 last year and 491 the previous year). The great growth of this valuable phase of library co-operation is shown by our own loans from year to year, advancing from 85 in the first year to 302 in the third year and 618 in this (the sixth) year. The Country Library Service took 440 books (compared with 408 last year). Other borrowing libraries included the Wellington Public Library (69) and Palmerston North Public Library (19). The books lent were classified as follows: history and biography, 211; sociology, 134; literature, 117; useful arts, 35; philosophy, 33; fine arts, 31; religion, 23; natural science, 23; bibliography, 6; philology, 5. There were only 9 requests we could not satisfy. The General Assembly Library borrowed 27 volumes through interloan from other libraries.

Recess Privileges.—There was again a considerable increase in the number of persons using the Library on the recess privilege. This year the number was 617 (as compared with 475, 308, and 289 in preceding years).

During recess, 78 baskets and 297 parcels were posted to members of Parliament.

Archives.—It is hoped that during the coming year further accommodation will enable this work to expand. During the year some useful field-work was carried out.

International Exchange.—Owing to the war, exchange with foreign countries is practically nil, but a lively interest is being shown by the British dominions, especially Australia. Arrangements have now been made with the exchange agents in the United States for publications to come forward every two or three months instead of holding them for one large consignment. We therefore received three shipments of exchange documents during the year, consisting of 38 cases (21 of which were for the General Assembly Library) and 3,503 packages, which we posted or delivered to other Departments and private addresses. This compares with 25 cases and 2,720 packages in the previous year.

Again I would express my appreciation of the fine work done cheerfully by a depleted staff in the Library and of the efficiency of the book-ordering staffs in London and Washington. I would also acknowledge the consideration shown by the Joint Library Committee.

The statement of receipts and expenditure for the year, with the Auditor-General's certificate, is attached.

I am, &c.,
G. H. SCHOLEFIELD,
Chief Librarian and Archivist.
