purchased for use in the College flocks. Every effort has been made to make the College farm serve the purpose of all-round efficient agricultural training for the students, and it has accordingly been maintained in good heart, well equipped, and managed on such economical lines and business methods as best meet the conditions.

As the curriculum had been extended from two to three years there were of course no students completing their course at the end of the year, and diploma examinations were not required.

The Hon. the Minister of Education.

I have, &c.,
WILLIAM LOWRIE, Director.
