Illustrating the old methods followed by the State Coal Depot in dealing with cash orders. An official receipt (marked "A") was handed to the customer on payment of the money. The same particulars were then transcribed in a counter-book (marked "B"). The information necessary to enable the foreman to make out the carter's delivery tickets (marked "C") was extracted from this book. In addition to the above, the Official Receiver's cash-book was posted up in detail from the official receipt-book referred to above.
