THE REGULATIONS ACT, 1936.

(REPORT ON THE WORKING OF THE ACT.)

Presented to both Houses of the General Assembly by Leave.

Office of the Attorney-General,
Wellington, 2nd August, 1939.

THE second periodical volume of Statutory Regulations prepared pursuant to the Regulations Act, 1936, was closed on 31st December, 1938. It included the regulations issued up to that date from 1st January, 1938, and comprised 777 pages of text, subsequently increased by the preparation of indexes, &c., running to 30 pages. The bound volume has now been issued under the title "Statutory Regulations 1938."

The third volume, "Statutory Regulations 1939," is now in course of serial issue, the terms of subscription being the same as for the previous volume.

As at 31st December, 1938, the subscribers to the publication in serial form were—

	Copies.
Government Departments	280
Other official issues	181
Local authorities and members of the public	419
Total	880

Up to 31st December, 1938, the numbers of copies of the second bound volume subscribed for were—

	Copies.
Government Departments	322
Other official issues	45
Local authorities and members of the public	328
Total	695

In addition to the copies accounted for as above, large numbers of separate and selected regulations have been issued both to Government Departments and to members of the public, and casual sales of the 1938 bound volume have numbered 72 to date.

The total number of enactments in the 1938 volume is 181, of which 96 may be regarded as new matter, 63 as amendments, and 25 as consolidating enactments. The number of previous regulations completely revoked or superseded is 56.

During the year 1938 seven sets of regulations were reprinted with amendments pursuant to section 7 of the Regulations Act, 1936.
